

Image reconstruction in limited data X-ray tomography

Ville Kolehmainen

We consider image reconstruction in x-ray tomography with limited measurement data. We discuss the Bayesian formulation of the problem and consider a few case studies from medical imaging applications. We also discuss a systematic approach, called S-curve, for the selection of the prior parameter for sparsity promoting prior models.